➤ Remploy's award-winning Building Products business is a leading force within the UK housing sector.

Its progressive use of manufacturing techniques, teamed with commitment to continuous improvement helps shape the industry.

Supplying over 50,000 high quality, energy efficient windows and a range of doors and associated products to some of the UK's largest social housing providers, schools and new build developers; Remploy provide a proven PVC-u product range, fabricated and installed to meet the highest recognised industry standards.

Working with Housing Associations, Local Authorities, main contractors and house builders, we offer straightforward, cost-effective solutions for our clients. Whether replacing windows and doors to non decent homes standard housing stock or delivering "supply only" windows and doors for new builds, we have the expertise to complete on time and within budget.

Remploy Building Products fabricate a complete range of window and door styles using WHS Halo System10 suite of profiles. WHS Halo is one of the largest British based PVCu extruders.

'System 10' is designed primarily for the public sector and house builder markets, meeting all legislative requirements and offering the tenant a wide choice of options and styles without compromising quality.

Remploy Building Products work across the UK with our installation partners. We are proud of the fact that all of our teams are working to the "Code of Practice" for survey and installation of PVCu windows and doors and are accredited to British Standards BS8213 Part 4.

Our Contracts and Business Development Managers are available to attend initial contracts meetings and will be happy to explain and demonstrate the windows. We also work with our clients to agree Key Performance Indicators, these are constantly monitored and communicated to all staff at Remploy Building Products.
